

QUIZ TIME

Pathology

Lec: 19

What is the hallmark of Right-sided heart failure?

- a) Acute pulmonary edema.
- b) Engorgement of the systemic and portal venous systems only.
- c) Pitting edema.
- d) Accumulation of fluid in the abdominal cavity (ascites) only.

Answer: c

Which heart valves are most commonly affected in Infective Endocarditis?

- a) Tricuspid and Pulmonary valves
- b) Aortic and Mitral valves
- c) Mitral and Tricuspid valves
- d) Aortic and Pulmonary valves

Answer: b) Aortic and Mitral valves

What is the primary and preferred diagnostic test in chronic Infective Endocarditis?

- a) Echocardiogram
- b) Electrocardiogram (ECG)
- c) Blood culture
- d) Chest X-ray

Answer: c) Blood culture

What is the dominant type of inflammatory cell in the myocardial infarction area during the 48-72 hour period?

- a) Lymphocytes
- b) Neutrophils
- c) Macrophages
- d) Fibroblasts

Answer: b) Neutrophils

What is the dominant type of inflammatory cell in the myocardial infarction area after 72 hours?

- a) Lymphocytes
- b) Neutrophils
- c) Macrophages
- d) Eosinophils

Answer: c) Macrophages

In giant cell arteritis, which blood vessel is most commonly involved?

- a) Femoral Artery
- b) Brachial Artery
- c) Superficial Temporal Artery
- d) Peroneal Artery

Answer: c) Superficial Temporal Artery

